Fortify Static Code Analyzer and Tools

New Feature

- Support for Xcode 12.2 and 12.3
- Support for Swiftc 5.3.2

Fixes

- Fortify Extension for Visual Studio 2019 Initialization Problem: In some cases, based on the use of other extensions/components, the extension failed to initialize.
- Fortify Audit Workbench: Memory is not properly released after a loaded FPR is closed. Use the following procedure if you run Fortify Audit Workbench in an environment where you need to pay for memory used:
  1. Uncomment the com.fortify.awb.forceGCOnProjectClose property in the Core/config/fortify.properties file and set the value to true.
  2. Run Fortify Audit Workbench using the following command: auditworkbench -XX:+UseG1GC

Optional Update Component

extended_config.bin – This file allows Fortify Static Code Analyzer to scan Docker configuration files (dockerfile, Dockerfile). You only need to install this file if you are using the 2020 Update 3 release of the Fortify Software Security Content. If you are using the 2020 Update 4 release or later, this update is not necessary.

Documentation

The Fortify System Requirements document has been updated to reflect additional language support. No changes have been made to other documentation. Refer to the documentation for the 20.2.x release.
